

The annual Higher Education Fair at Telford College took place on Tuesday November 10 2009, with many Universities close to the region having a stand outside the refectory to encourage students to think about their options after they have completed their course at Telford College. As well as providers such as Liverpool John Moores University, Harper Adams University and the University of Wolverhampton, Telford College careers advisor, Tom Chapple was also on hand to speak to students about career aspirations, University choices and the range of Foundation Degrees on offer through the College.

The Higher Education Fair was a great success with many students going along to pick up prospectuses and information about their chosen University.
